

Alignment of the National Standards for Learning Languages with the Common Core State Standards

Performance Expectations

The Common Core State Standards for English Language Arts (ELA) and Literacy lay out a vision of what it means to be a literate person in the twenty first century, describing the skills and understandings students are expected to demonstrate which have wide applicability outside the classroom or workplace. These expectations are described in the ELA Anchor Standards across four strands: Reading Writing Speaking and Listening and Language. These four strands are represented in the National Standards for Learning Languages by the Communication standards (interpersonal, interpretive, and presentational) and the level of proficiency demonstrated. In addition, the standards of the other four goal areas for learning languages – Cultures, Connections, Comparisons, and Communities – also support and are aligned with the Common Core. These standards describe the expectations to ensure all students are college , career , and world ready.

The Common Core strands of Reading, Writing, Speaking and Listening are captured in the standards for learning languages' goal area of Communication, by emphasizing the purpose behind the communication:

- Interpersonal (speaking + listening or writing + reading)
- Interpretive (reading listening viewing)
- Presentational (writing speaking visually representing)

In the description of reading in the Common Core document, the use of both literary and informational texts is suggested. This same balance is identified in the Standards for Learning Languages benchmarks achieved in world language programs given sufficient instruction over time.
